R2AC Launches New Website

By Katie Carter

While contemplating my move to Bemidji five years ago, it was the access to art in this area that sealed the deal for me.

Three years later, I applied for an internship at the Region 2 Arts Council. Prior to my interview, I engaged in the standard 21st century research of surfing the Internet to mine information. At that time, the R2AC website was dauntingly standard: gray on gray tones with the occasional blue logo, links to pdf grant applications, a list of area artists and information for artists seeking assistance in marketing. Pretty standard stuff, really. No images, just links to text pages. At the time, I thought to myself, "yikes. . .this organization needs a new web page."

Fortunately, I landed the internship and began spending my days in the offices of R2AC. Before lunch break on that first day, I understood the treasure that is R2AC and the rich, positive, creative life force it breathes into this area. Artists dropped in for advice and shared samples of their latest work. People writing grants stopped by with questions about the application process. Someone with an idea for a project came in just to bounce it around. I realized, first hand, how much this organization does to sustain the art culture in our north woods world.

Each day, artists came and went. Upon their departure I would return to the computer smiling broadly with eyes as wide as saucers, feeling grateful to spend my days in such a soul nourishing atmosphere. Often I found myself thinking that the online presence in no way reflects what is happening here.

Well, two years later, an updated web page is finally here and it illuminates the work of R2AC!

Okay, they have more than updated it, they have completely renovated it. If you haven't surfed the internet lately and stopped off at <http://r2arts.org/>, you should. What was once a simple, standard web page has now evolved into an educational experience sure to motivate an arts enthusiast to become more involved and inspire an artist to get cracking on finally applying for a grant, starting a website for promoting works, enrolling in the artist registry or experiencing a risk-free workshop.

The website has a mecca of art information for those of us fortunate enough to live in Region 2. Thanks to the thoughtful, genius work of Vivienne Morgan, the web designer, it offers much more than data. The new site is an artful experience. Full-color, vibrant images of local art, grant writing tips, personal stories of grantees, links to and explanations of local and state arts advocacy groups and organizations all enhance R2AC's online presence. The site even has an RSS option so you can be notified of new opportunities via email. Pretty fabulous stuff, really.

And it should be. R2AC has made a profound impact on life as we know it. It certainly has impacted mine.

Rather than shout the good news from the rooftop, in these modern times I'll simply send out a mass email with the link to the new page. Then I'll mention R2AC has a fan page on Facebook as well. www.facebook.com/pages/Region-2-Arts-Council/

ARTS & CULTURAL LEGACY GRANT FUNDS COMING IN 2010

Artists, arts and non-profit organizations, schools, cities and communities will want to start planning to take advantage of these funds in January 2010. The Region 2 Arts Council (R2AC) will receive approximately $234,000 in 2010 to be re-granted in Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard, Mahnommen and Lake of the Woods counties.

The R2AC along with the other regional arts councils and Minnesota State Arts Board is developing the strategic plan for these funds to ensure we are meeting the needs in our region and state. The information gathered throughout the state and our region through needs assessment surveys is being utilized in this process. We continue to seek public input and are happy to talk with you about any additional ideas or suggestions you may have.

The Arts & Cultural Legacy funds will be directed toward the following three priorities established as part of the legislation: Arts Access, Arts Education and Cultural Heritage.

78% for Arts Access: To support Minnesota artists and arts organizations in creating, producing and presenting high-quality arts activities; to overcome barriers to accessing the arts; and to instill the arts into the community and public life in this state.

15% for Art Education: This will be to fund proposals that support life-long learning and appreciation of the arts, including support for K-12 activities that enhance but not replace school arts curriculum.

5% for Cultural Heritage: For events and activities that represent the diverse ethnic and cultural arts traditions, including folk and traditional artists and art organizations, represented in this state.

Proposals must address at least one key area. We will encourage proposals that incorporate multiple focus areas as well as collaborations and partnerships to deliver effective arts services.
